

NEW HAMPSHIRITES WANT U.S. INVESTMENT AGAINST GLOBAL DISEASE

ONE's 2026 national survey finds that a large and growing majority of New Hampshire residents support US funding to fight infectious diseases overseas, including investments in childhood vaccines and HIV/AIDS treatment – the very things Congress funds via PEPFAR, Gavi, and the Global Fund.

By a more than nine-to-one margin, New Hampshire residents believe the US government should invest in preventing and treating diseases in other countries to reduce the risk of future outbreaks reaching the United States. 74% support US global disease prevention funding, compared to just 8% who oppose it. 18% remain neutral or unsure. Support among New Hampshire residents has grown 2 percentage points since ONE's 2025 poll, with increases across all demographics.

74% Support
(8% Oppose)

Support is strong in both parties: Nationally, self-identified Trump voters support US funding to combat disease overseas by a 5-to-1 ratio [65% support, 13% oppose], while 86% of Democratic voters support global health investments, with only 3% opposed.

Strong Support for Child Vaccine Funding Notwithstanding Vaccine Hesitancy

New Hampshire supports US funding for childhood vaccination programs in low-income countries by a more than seven-to-one margin: 72% favor global vaccine funding, compared to just 10% opposed and 18% neutral or unsure. National support spans party lines, with 63% of Republicans supporting [with only 14% opposed] and 85% of Democrats supporting [with 4% opposed]. This support persists even while 55% of Americans express some personal vaccine hesitancy. Many hesitant Americans still support immunization programs abroad, viewing global funding and personal vaccine choices as distinct issues.

Even Stronger Support for funding HIV/AIDS Treatment

Eighty percent of New Hampshire residents support US funding for global HIV/AIDS treatment programs, compared to just 11% who oppose it. Support has increased by 5 percentage points since last year. Strong majority support exists on both sides of the aisle: Nationally, 72% of Trump voters and 91% of Democratic voters support US investment in HIV/AIDS treatment abroad.
