

NEW MEXICO WANTS U.S. INVESTMENT AGAINST GLOBAL DISEASE

68% Support
USG investments against global disease
73% Support
USG funding to end HIV/AIDS

Recent polling indicates that New Mexicans across party lines support US investments to combat disease overseas.

68% of New Mexicans agree that the US government should invest in preventing and treating diseases in other countries to reduce the risk of future outbreaks in the United States (compared to only 13% who disagree, and 19% of neither view).

Support is even stronger for programs with the goal of ending the HIV/AIDS epidemic, with 73% of New Mexicans supporting US funding (compared to 10% opposed and 17% with neither view).

The summer 2025 nationwide poll by Stack Data Strategy and the ONE Campaign indicates that support cuts across party lines, including among those who identify as Republican or conservative.

Global Health Investments Support American Jobs. Furthermore, most of the small minority who expressed opposition said they would be more likely to support if they knew such funding would be used to buy medicines and equipment from American companies, which does in fact happen.

- Gavi, the Vaccine Alliance, is the single largest purchaser of US-made vaccines and spends more in the US than the US contributes to Gavi -- buying American-made materials and technologies that support livelihoods across the country.
- US support to the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria also generates US returns, given the Global Fund's procurement from American businesses.
